

The growth of the crypto-financial industry may also be influenced by several other trends over the next 12 months – and beyond. While they may not prove to be as fundamentally important as other market developments or technical advancements, they do warrant close attention, both in their own right and as part of industry-wide movements.